

Golfers Organize For 1934 Season

H. G. Angell Re-Elected President—Plan Improved Greens—To Handicap Players

An auspicious start on the 1934 season was made by the Bassano Golf Club at their annual meeting last Monday evening, April 9. Fourteen enthusiastic golfers attended the meeting in W. K. Webb's office.

Officers elected for the 1934 season are as follows:

Pres., H. G. Angell
1st Vice Pres., Mrs. J. Slorance
2nd Vice Pres., H. W. Harper
Sec. Treas., W. K. Webb
Greens committee, Dr. A. G. Scott, Chas. Hopkins, Dr. W. F. Keith, Austin Ford, Bob Harper.

Entertainment committee, Mrs. A. P. Thompson, Mrs. A. McKee, Mrs. A. G. Scott, H. W. Harper, Archie Johnston.

Membership committee, Miss E. McArthur, Mrs. N. E. Hinton, George Scott, Miss Hazel Barlow, H. W. Harper.

The club came thru the 1934 season with a surplus of $11.36, as shown by the financial statement. The club had a membership of 24 last year.

Fees were fixed at the same figures as last year. Adult membership fee is $4.00 for men and $2.00 for ladies. The Junior fee is $1.00; married couple $5.00; non-resident member $1.00.

The clubhouse purchased last fall by special subscription will be put in use this season. The site for the clubhouse has not been selected, but it will probably be located near H. G. Angell's residence.

Some of the members have already had a few rounds on the links this spring, and they report the fairways in fair shape, but the greens in need of improvement. The greens committee plans to smooth the greens and give them a surfacing of oiled sand as soon as material can be obtained.

Last year the club participated in the Alberta country districts golf tournament sponsored by the Banff Springs Golf Club, of Banff, and it is expected that Bassano golfers will compete in the 1934 tournament.

Official opening of the local club will be some time in early May, the secretary intimates, and will take the form of a president vs. vice president competition.

It is the intention of the executive to handicap the members and hold a number of competitions during the season.

British Economist Sees Prospect Wheat Price Increase Soon

LONDON—The crop trend throughout the world at last points to higher grain prices. This is the cheering conclusion of The Economist, famous statistical journal of which Sir Walter Layton, economic adviser to the League of Nations, is editor.

A hardening tendency, it says, a prospect of the Rome wheat conference, has appeared in the markets, because while future harvests are unlikely to show increases, industrial demand should grow along with improvised prices for industrial products.

Police Find Fight On Freight Train Greatly Exaggerated

Traced to its origin by local R.C.M.P., the story related by an itinerant telling of three men who fought on top of the speeding midnight freight was found to be nothing more than a brawl in the railway yards.

One of the combatants was pushed off a flat car and sought the privacy and seclusion of a passing freight, hoping to continue his journey unmolested.

Police were told the fight took place aboard the freight train Tuesday night of last week, somewhere between Bassano and Brooks, and that one man was pushed off the train as it sped through the night.

Sgt. J. N. Cawsey conducted an all-day fruitless search for the supposedly missing man. Later he uncovered a truthful account of the incident.

Hussar Seeks Aid For Gravel Road

Want Bassano Board of Trade to Support Petition for Highway East to Hussar and North to Wayne.

Support of the Bassano Board of Trade in a petition to the provincial government to build a gravel highway thru Hussar was sought by the Hussar Board of Trade in a letter to the Bassano board this week. The letter was read at the local board meeting Wednesday noon.

The Hussar Board, in co-operation with the U.F.A. locals in that district, is asking the provincial Department of Public Works to extend the gravel road from a point on Highway No. 2, where it turns south towards Gleichen, east to Hussar and north to join the Wayne-Drumheller road.

The letter suggested that if this road was built there was a possibility that another road might be built running south from Hussar to connect up with the gravel highway near Bassano, and that such a road would be of considerable value to this town.

The matter was turned over to the Public affairs committee.

Miscellaneous Business

Dr. B. E. Barlow reported the board now had a membership of 62.

The C.P.R. passenger department in Winnipeg wrote in reply to a request made by the board that the special week-end passenger fares be given from city to country points as well as from country to the city. The letter explained that the suggestion made by the Bassano board would be given a trial in the near future.

Pattern 8178. Daytime fashions for spring and summer are distinguished by interesting sleeves and slim skirt lines. This design answers all the requirements for an attractive spring or summer dress for the street. The tucked sleeve softly bloused at the elbow, the gay butterfly effect of the yoke, the molded hip lines and flaring hem all contribute to the pleasing appearance.

In the matter of selection of materials, pastels, crepes, periwinkle blue, moss green, or the new soft shade of dusky pink are the first suggestions for spring. For summer printed voile, batiste or triple sheer could be used effectively with white accessories.

The Alberta visit of Major C. H. Douglas, apostle of social credit, cannot be called a triumphal march. Some ardent protagonists of the British economic theorist were delighted with the addresses given by him. Other opinion claimed that he failed to outline a practicable solution for the economic ills of Alberta. His words were spoken with a degree of caution and restraint rather than with an air of certainty. Supporters of Major Douglas can at least derive some satisfaction in the attention he and his system are getting from the Alberta Government. He was given several hearings before members of the Legislature.

Something like a scrap is taking place between two districts north of Hussar. The farmers want a gravelled highway built into Hussar from the west and then north of the village. The division of opinion occurs of whether the road from Hussar should be built north to join the Wayne Drumheller highway or whether it should be built to serve the Rockford and Rosebud districts to the northwest. The provincial Department of Public works is flooded with petitions for more roads. We have heard from an authoritative source that the amount of money available for road building is not ten per cent of that required to build all the roads farmers are asking for.

Perhaps the complaint made by the Bassano Board of Trade had nothing to do with it, but at any rate the C. P. R. has readjusted the special week-end passenger fares so that now a return ticket from city to country points can be purchased for the same price as a return ticket from country to city. The new ruling applies to special fares this week-end 'till until the present time the special fare was given only from a country point to the city.

Whatever may be said of Major Douglas and his social credit theories, his wife has some sensible ideas. Mrs. Douglas says a woman's place is in the home.

Pasture Values

Pastures may be made to play an important part in the production of poultry. Chickens obtain a large part of their feed when allowed free range with access to blue grass or crop from which they will pick up a variety of insects and worms as well as green feed.

In raising young chicks the use of clean ground or new pasture helps to prevent losses from coccidiosis and other parasitic diseases.

Geese will obtain most of their living from good grass or clover pasture during the summer. In some cases they are fed no grain until large enough to fatten.

Turkeys also thrive on suitable clean pasture or range, making efficient use of grass, clover, or temporary pastures. Success in raising young turkeys depends largely on sanitation of the range in order to prevent the parasitic disease, blackhead. This malady may affect adult turkeys but occurs principally among poults between the ages of 6 weeks and 6 months. It is found to a greater or less extent throughout the United States and is by far the most destructive ailment of turkeys.

Chickens are often affected with blackhead without showing any symptoms and may carry and spread the infection to turkeys when allowed to range with them. Turkeys carry gapeworms and transmit them to chicks with deadly results. Chickens should therefore be kept away from turkeys at all times.

Horses and cattle are also subject to parasitic infestation from permanent pastures, especially of small size, that are used year after year by the same kind of animals.

Although no recommendations can be given that will apply to all sections of the country and for all classes of animals and fowls, the following precautions may be taken as applicable to average farm conditions:

tions:

Use new pastures whenever they are available as they usually produce better forage and are less apt to carry parasite eggs or infective larva.

Avoid overstocking a pasture as this practice is apt to concentrate pasture infection, resulting in more worm eggs and worms to an area, thus increasing the chances of stock becoming infected.

Change the stock from one pasture to another and change the kind of stock on the same pasture as far as possible. Follow sheep and cattle with horses or swine.

SOYBEANS

During the past few years, soybeans have been attracting much attention throughout Canada. Soybean seed has considerable commercial value because of its high oil content. In centers of high seed production, oil mills exist for the extraction of this oil which has many industrial uses. On the farm, soybeans may be used as a hay crop, or the ripe beans may be fed to all classes of livestock. The beans are extremely rich in protein and may replace a considerable quantity of the high priced concentrate feeds. Analyses of the seed grown on the Dominion Experimental Farm at Brandon show an average protein content of 43 per cent and 18 percent of oil.

From time to time, warnings have been issued not to feed soybeans to market hogs as they have a tendency to produce soft pork. This is generally true when the soybeans are fed with corn. Experiments conducted at the Delaware Experiment Station show that if fed with wheat instead of corn, soybeans do not have this undesirable effect.

The crop has been grown at Brandon for a number of years with very promising results. The past three years have been comparatively dry yet in field tests during this period, soybeans have averaged 16½ bushels per acre. These yields were obtained with un-inoculated seed. In 1933, inoculation increased the yield by approximately 25 percent. The inoculated area yielded 24 bushels while the adjacent area which was sown with untreated seed yielded 19 bushels per acre.

Varietal tests show that the earliest varieties can be depended upon to produce seed. Of these, Wisconsin Black and Manitoba Brown are the most satisfactory. A strain of Mandarin, a yellow seeded selection of the Division of Forage Plants, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, gave excellent results in 1933. It is later than Wisconsin Black but matured last year, possibly because the first severe fall frost did not come until late September.

While the soybean makes an excellent quality hay, there are drawbacks to its use for this purpose. It is not ready to cut until late August, a time when other work is pressing and conditions for curing are not the best.

Soybeans are generally grown in rows as an intertilled crop. In 1933 the crop was grown in close drills like field peas with considerable success.

Miles flown by British aircraft last year were much higher than in 1932.

More than six hundred babies are born every day in Canada; twenty-five new babies arrive every hour of the day and night, which means that we can boast of one new Canadian every four or five minutes.

The first few hours of life are the most critical period of human existence from the point of view of survival. Despite the fact that infants are given a much better chance to live today than ever before, nevertheless, the first year of life is still the period when one in six of all deaths at all ages occurs, and of all the deaths which occur during the first year of life, a large percentage take place on the first day following birth.

The baby who survives this period is absolutely dependant. Babies cannot do anything for themselves; they must depend upon their parents for the care which they need. Some children seem to grow up like Topsy without any care, but taking children as a group, it is the child who receives proper maternal care who escapes the pitfalls which beset the infant.

There is nothing of greater importance to the child than breast feeding. Practically, every healthy mother can nurse her baby, and no mother should think of not nursing her baby or of weaning him without seeking the advice of her doctor. The doctor, if breast feeding is impossible or when the time for weaning comes, will prescribe proper artificial feedings.

The baby requires water, and because he cannot ask for it, he must be offered a drink of water at frequent intervals. The baby who is clean is more comfortable, and so he should have a daily bath. His clothes should be loose and comfortable; he should wear enough clothing to keep him warm but not enough to make him hot.

Regularity in feeding is essential to health. Feed by the clock, waking the child if necessary. This promotes good habits, including better rest. The old habits of rocking the baby to sleep or sitting by his crib until he goes to sleep are undesirable for both child and mother. The comfort is another bad habit. The baby does not have to have something always in his mouth, and the comfort should never be used because it is really irritating and dirty, as well as being deforming to the mouth.

Questions concerning Health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College Street, Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

The grizzly bear is called "the King of the Rockies," yet it will step aside to let a humble skunk pass along the trail.
